

Scientific and Social Boundaries for a Just and Safe Planetary Home

Note the four areas where planetary ecological boundaries are already on “overshoot”.

Note that there are no areas where physiological, psychological and social basic human rights are being met.

As Kate Raworth says, “Remember donut boundaries are the areas of need where creative people generally have unleashed their power to make a difference and generate change. This knowledge of how some people are willing to work on the creative edges of life along with our faith provides the sure hope for the future.”
